CONCORD, N.H. (AP) -- A 63-year-old woman is recovering from a chilly night in the woods, having been found by rescuers approximately 10 hours after leaving her daughter's home in Wolfeboro.

New Hampshire Fish and Game Department Conservation Officers coordinated search efforts for the missing woman, Concepcion

"Conchy" Ruiz of Miami, Florida, after a family member notified police she had disappeared from their residence some time during the afternoon Monday.

The woman was found at about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday. She was discovered lying down in a heavily wooded area -- about 40 yards from the residence -- by "Haven," a Malinois search and rescue dog, and her handler Nancy Lyon of New England K-9 Search and Rescue.

Officials say Ruiz appeared despondent and was transported by ambulance to Huggins Hospital in Wolfeboro for evaluation. Overnight low temperatures for the area were around 40 degrees.
